

MAXMILIAN WANTS TO BE MAKER OF LAWS INSTEAD OF SOLDIER

For First Time German Prince Prefers Parliamentary to Military Life and Withdraws From Army.

RULER OF BADEN HAS SOCIALISTIC LEANINGS

Heidelberg, July 13.—Great interest has been excited throughout Germany by the unusual case of a German prince, in direct line of succession to the throne, preferring a parliamentary career to a military one and withdrawing voluntarily from the army.

Prince Maximilian of Baden, holding the rank of a major general and commanding the 25th Cavalry Brigade, has retired from the army, according to an announcement in the official "Kaiserliche Zeitung," because his responsibilities as president of the upper house of parliament of Baden led him to retire for his military duties. No remarkable was this step in Germany, that the official version received much credence and rumors that the prince's retirement was due to a personal conflict with Emperor William, the over-zealous, were current until formally denied by the military secretary of Prince Maximilian.

Prince Maximilian, as president of the Baden house of peers, has shown himself more liberal than the majority of peers, earning out strongly in favor of an act of village administration, induced by the Socialists and the Baden majority, but rejected by the house of peers.

Though more than six years have passed since the marriage of the German crown prince and crown princess the wedding present of the Prussian cities to the imperial couple is only now approaching completion. It will probably be presented this autumn, before the departure of the crown prince to take up his regular military command at Berlin.

It consists of an ornate silver table service, designed by a number of the leading German artists and sculptors, one artist, for instance, working out two groups of elephants and unicorns, joining the scenes and forms of the Prussian cities, another designing a series of male and female figures to represent the provinces and kingdoms, still others having to do with the history of the empire and the Prussian monarchy, and others with the history of the empire and the Prussian monarchy, and others with the history of the empire and the Prussian monarchy.

Professor F. Kuhlmann, of the technical university in Charlottenburg, has just made an expedition to Egypt for the purpose of determining the heat of the sun. His observations were made on a high mountain, more than 10,000 feet above the sea level. It was necessary to take the observations in the direct sunlight, near the equator, in order to get perpendicular rays, and at an elevation so as to operate in an atmosphere where conditions are favorable.

The observations were made on the days when the sun was about 10 degrees above the horizon, and the results of the observations showed a temperature of between 5,300 and 5,500 degrees Celsius. This was according to an old scale of measurement, but according to a scale adopted in 1907 the measurements would range between 6,000 and 6,200 degrees. The estimate of two other scientists had already shown temperatures of about the same intensities as Prof. Kuhlmann's, but the observations were made in a different manner.

On account of the great number of foreigners who visit Egypt during the annual fair, the Egyptian common council has decided to instruct a number of policemen in English and French, and also to appoint to the police force, non-commissioned officers from the army, in order to be able to handle the more difficult German and Polish languages. The linguistic officers will be distinguished by a sash with the flag of the land whose speech they understand and will.

S.S.S. REMOVES ALL HUMORS FROM THE BLOOD

The cause of all skin diseases can be traced to some humor in the blood, and therefore the cure of any skin trouble can come only through a thorough cleansing of this vital fluid. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., relieve some of the itching and discomfort, help to reduce inflammation, or aid in keeping the cuticle clean, but such treatment does not reach the blood, and of course can have no real curative effect. S.S.S. cures Skin Diseases of every kind because it purifies the blood. It is an internal remedy for an internal trouble, and works on the only reasonable and certain method of cure. S.S.S. removes all acids and humors from the circulation and leaves the blood stream rich, healthy and nonpoisonous in order that it may supply the cuticle with the necessary properties to restore it to its smooth, normal condition. Then a cure results because the old exciting cause has been disposed of. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice sent free to all who write. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores.

The chief of police at Peking, China, an amiable gentleman named C. C. Chang, has been in Berlin for some time making a close study of the system of paying, receiving and disposing of garbage. It is supposed that his visit here portends an attempt to modernize the Chinese capital, the sanitation of which leaves much to be desired.

ENGINEER MAKING INVESTIGATION

Member of Territorial Engineer Miller's Staff at Tucumcari Looking Over Location for Road.

Tucumcari, N. M., July 14.—Territorial Engineer J. D. Merryweather of Santa Fe arrived here Friday for the purpose of investigating the proposed route across the Caprock, both at Ragland and at Apache Canyon, and to report on the location of a bridge site on Plaza Largo.

President of the Chamber of Commerce A. B. Carter, Chairman J. M. Rodgers and A. R. Dodson, upon the engineer's arrival, and Engineer Merryweather left at noon yesterday.

The territory is being called on to make application for the construction of roads in various sections of the territory, and it is becoming generally understood that these Caprock crossings must have attention before plans are set on foot to build the road to and from the Caprock.

JAPANESE WIN IN TWO MONTHS' WAR

Paper Battle at Washington War College Gives the Little Brown Men the Victory After Sixty Days.

Washington, July 13.—War has been going on more between Japan and the United States at the war college here for two months. The Americans have gotten the worst of it, according to one of the veterans of the campaign. The Philippines and Hawaii are in the possession of the forces of the mikado, and several thousand Japanese troops have been landed in California, where it will take the United States three years to dislodge them, in the judgment of the

NO ELECTION FOR ROSWELL NOW

Commission Case Was Passed Up to Supreme Court Without Any Election Being Ordered. Present Officers Stay.

Roswell, N. M., July 14.—Though there was some misunderstanding here at first regarding the decision made Saturday by Judge Wright, it is well understood now that his honor merely passed the case up to the supreme court and did not order the election on the commission form of government to be held.

At first, judging from what must be considered a misleading telegram, it was thought that Judge Wright had handed down a decision granting a peremptory writ of mandamus, compelling the mayor and city council to immediately call an election on the so-called commission form of government, and that the election was almost at hand.

But there will be no election at any time in the near future. What Judge Wright really did was to avoid handing down any opinion on the case. He merely stated that in his opinion the case could, on being sent direct to the supreme court, be settled quickly and finally on a point of law.

This course would save time and expense and the taking of a great deal of testimony which in the long run would do no good. He added that the case would be settled quickly and finally on a point of law.

The judge then granted the peremptory writ of mandamus with the usual exceptions attached.

The practical effect of Judge Wright's decision is to pass the case up to the supreme court for decision. The case had never been taken before Judge Wright in the first place.

It will be noted that Judge Wright stated that his opinion, which was an informal one and not written, was a mere matter of legal form and not as his real opinion, but to get the case before the supreme court.

The judge gave the city the right to appeal, but the transcript must be filed in time to have the matter come up at the August term of the supreme court, which meets in Santa Fe, August 15th. Usually a 120-day limit is set for the filing of a transcript. The judge also put the city under a $1,000 bond.

City Attorney How states that he will file the transcript at once.

In regard to when the appeal will be perfected and heard, the following statement was obtained from W. A. Dunn, attorney for the city.

Mr. Dunn says that all the contracts and city council has pledged the mayor to Judge Dunn and myself that as soon as the city's orders are filed with the clerk, he will apply for a transcript and file the same forthwith in the supreme court, that he will have his end of the case ready for hearing at the August term, or else discontinue the appeal.

Mr. How offered to stipulate with us in this effect in writing, but we assured him, of course, that his word was sufficient.

The rules of court give either party to a suit of public interest the right of asking for an advancement of the case on the docket, and it is probable that such a motion will be made in this case, with a view to having it submitted at the first of the term and decided as early as practicable.

POLITICAL CRISIS ABROAD IS REACHED

Henry Clews Says Situation Between Germany and France Has Grown Acute; Weather Affects Stocks.

New York, July 14.—Henry Clews, the well-known Wall Street analyst, says that the political situation abroad has reached a crisis. He says that the situation between Germany and France has grown acute, and that the weather is affecting the stock market.

While selling pressure did not develop on an exceptionally high scale, the price level of stock exchange securities early this week reflected the influences that for a time seemed unfavorable interpretation. The most potent of these, which was apparently greatly modified, was the continued dry weather, accompanied by intense heat in important areas of the west.

The second was the political situation abroad, which became so acute as to almost merit the designation of a crisis in the relations between France and Germany over the Moroccan situation. In addition the Italian situation again appeared, this time as a result of Russia's proposed action in making troops, which Turkey regarded as an unfriendly act.

These three circumstances, it was not unusual that there should have been a check upon the demand for securities at home, while at the same time the decline in quotations on the London and continental exchanges naturally exercised a sympathetic influence on this side. So far as the Moroccan incident is concerned, it is very apt to be largely overrated.

In accordance with the terms of the Algeira agreement of two years ago France has been performing a duty that imposed of preserving order. In response to a specific demand from the Sultan for protection against the tribesmen, it sent a military force as far as the outskirts of Fez. Germany, after protesting against the military demonstration on the ground that it had no interest in Morocco, finally added force to her protest by sending a warship to Agadir, presumably as a significant, effective and final protest.

Both the German people and the French are in nature so highly excitable and sentimental that it is not surprising, therefore, that so much more should be heard of the possibilities of the present crisis than the quiet intervention, and unbiased view of outside impartial interests would suggest. As Great Britain is a party to the agreement, it seems a perfectly fair inference that the incident will be settled in a calm and dignified manner, and that the so-called threat of "war" is indeed one of the remotest possibilities.

The Balkan situation, moreover, has been so frequently in an attitude of tension as it occupies at present that there is no present need of granting it any greater importance as a market factor than at any time during the last year or so. With civilization progressing so actively in favor of arbitration it will take much more than the incidents already mentioned to cause a serious breakdown of peace.

Reverting to the immediate situation, it is not likely that the present crisis will lead to a serious breakdown of peace. The situation is not so serious as it appears to be. The situation is not so serious as it appears to be. The situation is not so serious as it appears to be.

HATCHING QUAIL UNDER CHICKEN

Unique Experiment in Bird Life: Stamm May Be Arrested for Obtaining Quail Under False Pretense.

Desert, Grand, Warden Richard H. Stamm, who is conducting a unique experiment in the culture of quail, is looking for a number of live quail in the desert. The quail were brought in several days ago by a native who, it is said, had a nest in an alfalfa field with a live quail. The quail was destroyed and the native had driven away, and the quail, it is said, was brought to the warden's office.

Mr. Stamm believes the quail in the desert are the offspring of California quail which he received from the California game warden, Thomas Gable. The quail, it is said, was brought to the warden's office to be used in the experiment.

It is the intention of Warden Stamm, who is saving money and other things for the purpose of having a hatchery at Santa Fe, in which the quail may be grown to a considerable size before being placed in the streams. As it is with some quail, perhaps 50 or 60 per cent of the quail planted mature. If there were facilities for allowing them to grow larger before being placed in the streams, over 90 per cent could be grown.

Mr. Stamm believes with the new hatchery now worked out, hatching and rearing could be entirely removed. A hatchery in the number of quail would follow the establishment of a hatchery ground as planned by Warden Stamm.

FELIX ROBERT TO OPERATE RING IN UTAH

One of Most Prominent Fighters of Juarez Bull Ring to Demonstrate Science of His Profession in This Country.

El Paso, Texas, July 14.—Felix Robert is to demonstrate all the points of bull fighting in Utah, to which point he has shipped 20 old fighting bulls through this port. Some of the animals will be killed, and as all are old and hardly fast enough to make things interesting to a good matador, it is safe to say none of the fighters will be either killed or wounded.

The bulls were shipped to Salt Lake Beach, a resort near Lake City, to furnish amusement for the bored and idle gentry of Utah.

But it is to be a bloodless victory, the gallant matador achieves at Salt Lake. He is simply to show how it could, would or should be done without even touching the hide of the tough bovine—that is, picking it deep enough to touch blood, and it would take a pretty strong tooth to bring blood from a veteran lora that has done several seasons of stunts in the Chihuahua and Juarez bull rings.

There is some fun in it this time for the doctored lora, and it is he could only get a swell of money.
